Pierre HEILBRONN

My professional career in the last twenty years combines skills and experience in international affairs, public management, finance and development policy. I devoted much of it to negotiating with partners, working in MDBs/IFIs & Government at the highest level and developed a strong track record in policy shaping, reform management and outreach. Both in managerial and advisory posts I had the opportunity to develop hand-on approaches to results delivery and intellectual contribution to the shaping of economic, social and political strategies to development. I have led change in the bodies I have run in order to improve their effectiveness building bridges between people and institutions in multicultural contexts. I also had the chance to play a decisive role in solving crises by bringing together different partners to common goals.
